Located between the Great Ocean road and the Great Otway National Park, the Wongarra Truffle Farm is one of the Otways most unique estates. Set on 88 acres, the property is overflowing with natural beauty, an abundance of produce and faultless style. The two storey cedar home is nestled in a sheltered rainforest gully next to a waterfall and is surrounded by an established exotic garden. With two permanent creeks running through the lush pasture, the property produces a veritable cornucopia of the finest produce including grass-fed beef and lamb, free-range, rare-breed pork, pastured eggs, heritage fruit, heirloom vegetables, fresh herbs and the culinary diamonds this property's name is based on Perigord black truffles.
